About the Conclave

India, over the past decade, has witnessed major socio-economic transformations driven by visionary policies, structural reforms and technological advancements. These transformations have not only redefined India's economic and social landscape, but have also strengthened its global standing as a rising power.

This conclave provides a platform for policymakers, visionary thought leaders, academicians, industry pioneers and the stakeholders to engage in deep, meaningful discourse on India's decade-long development story and its aspirations for the future. This two-day conclave will serve as a reflective and forward-looking forum that evaluates the achievements of the past while strategizing the pathways for Viksit Bharat @ 2047—an India that is inclusive, sustainable, innovative and globally competitive.

Objectives

- To reflect on India's transformational journey over the last decade
- To encourage collaborative dialogue for inclusive and sustainable development
- To deliberate on actionable strategies and visionary frameworks for achieving Viksit Bharath @ 2047

About the Organisers

Centre for Multi-disciplinary Development Research (CMDR) is an autonomous social science research institute recognized and financially supported by the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR), Ministry of Education, Government of India as well as Government of Karnataka. The aims and objectives of the Centre include conducting research on developmental issues that are relevant at regional, national and global levels. The Centre is also known for its action research in a multi-disciplinary framework, covering social, economic, political and cultural dimensions. In addition, there is an attempt to judiciously combine theoretical perspectives and empirical realities in the analysis of developmental issues.

Centre for Educational and Social Studies (CESS) is a not-for-profit organization recognised by ICSSR, New Delhi as a Research Organization. It is driven by the vision to bring about "Social Transformation through and with Education". We engage in Research, Capacity Building and Policy Advocacy in the domain of Education and allied areas. CESS has undertaken projects and research studies, both in-house and in collaboration with premier institutions. CESS is deeply engaged in the capacity building of various stakeholders at both school education and higher education in its endeavour to facilitate the implementation of NEP 2020.
